NEW ARRIVALS

The next show for the Wonderful World of Watercolor will be May of 2012. My classes will be ready. Shown here are some of the latest finished paintings from these classes. If you use the criteria mentioned in the September issue about judging a show, I'm sure these paintings qualify. I'll list them again to refresh your memory. The important aspects of determining what is ready for an exhibit: Originality/creativity, composition, artistic ability, overall quality of execution, subject matter, appeal and impact, and finally presentation.

The puppies are by Elyse Hendrick, The seahorse is by Christine Harness, and the faucet is by Julia Malia.
